The University of Hong Kong
Department of Law

Guidelines for the selection of courses offered in 2022-23

This note is intended to give undergraduate students a few pointers on course selection for the coming academic year. It is also intended to provide guidance to students who plan to gain a law specialisation¹ or declare a minor in another discipline. If you have special problems and need more specific advice about your law curriculum, you may wish to consult your Academic Advisor (see the SIS to see the name of your Academic Advisor) or respective Programme Director / Year Coordinator.

General information

1. Freshmen are arranged to select their courses from 10:00 am 19 August (Friday) to 4:00 pm 25 August 2022 (Thursday). For current students, the HKU Portal course selection system will open on 3 August 2022 (Wednesday) and the system will close automatically at 4:00 pm, 9 August 2022 (Tuesday).

Both freshmen and current students may add / drop courses online from 1 to 15 September 2022 (4:00 pm). Late add / drop requests will not be allowed under the normal circumstances. You are reminded to finalise your course selection before the end of add-drop period. Any change of course enrolment request after add/drop period will not be considered unless you are able to provide strong justifications.

Summary of course selection and add/drop periods:-

Courses	Year of study	Course selection period	Course add-drop period
Full-year, first sem and second sem courses	Freshmen admitted in AY 2022-23	19-25 Aug 2022	1-15 Sept 2022 and 16 Jan – 6 Feb 2023 (add / drop of second sem courses)
	Current students	3-9 Aug 2022
Summer semester courses	Freshmen and current students	16 Jan - 6 Feb 2023 and 13-20 Jun 2023	16 Jan - 6 Feb 2023 and 13-20 Jun 2023

2. You may, of your own volition, take additional credits² not exceeding 6 credits in each semester,³ and / or further credits during the summer semester, accumulating up to a maximum of 72 credits in one academic year. Any further requests for taking more than 72 credits in one academic year are not allowed under normal circumstances. Students who intend to take summer course(s) and / or participate in summer internship programme should take this matter into account and plan ahead.

This policy allows LLB students some flexibility to gain a law specialisation or declare minor in another discipline. Students who overload in 2022-23 are still expected to take a minimum of 24 credits in each of their subsequent semester and spend 4 academic years (8 semesters) to complete their LLB degree.

Likewise, students under 5-year integrated double degrees who overload in 2022-23 are still expected to take a minimum of 24 credits in each of their subsequent semester and spend 5 academic years (10 semesters) to complete their integrated double degrees.

3. The course list for the academic year of 2022-23 can be found at our website: <https://course.law.hku.hk/>. You may only choose from courses included in the list of Undergraduate Courses. We advise you to spend some time to go through the list and plan for your course selection.
4. Regulations of your programme can be found at <https://dm.law.hku.hk/regulations/>. Unless otherwise pre-approved by Programme Director or Director of Exchange, students must follow the normal sequence of study. Please refer to:

³ But in any event, you are not allowed to take more than 36 credits for one semester.

Additional information for first year students

5. First year students are required to follow the order of studies. Requests for changing the normal order of study are generally not allowed. Please refer to relevant regulations and syllabuses <https://dm.law.hku.hk/regulations/> or the appendences below for more information.
6. Students select courses via Student Information System (SIS), see Course Selection Demonstration to get a quick idea on how to select courses via SIS. If you are exempted from taking CAES1000 Core University English, you are required to select a free elective in lieu of CAES1000.
7. Unless otherwise indicated by course teachers, tutorials normally start from the second week of each team. Students will be invited to select their preferred tutorial group(s) in the first week of each team, further details will be announced via email.
8. LLB students go on exchange either in their third or fourth years. Students under integrated double-degree normally will go on law exchange in their fourth or fifth year. Year one students do not have a pressing need to overload or change their sequence of study to facilitate exchange.

Additional information for final year students

9. Final year students are not allowed to take summer course(s).⁴ This is to ensure their timely graduation and admission to the PCLL programme.

⁴ Except students who needs to overload to satisfy graduation requirements.

10. In principle, we allow final year students to underload (ie. take less than 24 credits) in their second last and / or last semester(s) if they will have earned enough credits to graduate. Fill the online form (<https://moodle.hku.hk/mod/questionnaire/view.php?id=1831782>) before the end of the add/drop period of the first semester to notify us of your intention.
11. Final year students who are unable to graduate within the normal period of study (ie. 4 academic years (8 semesters) for LLB Programme and 5 academic years (10 semesters) for Integrated double-degree programmes) due to exchange or whatever reasons, are only allowed to take their remaining core courses and / or PCLL pre-requisites to graduate. Any plans to overload and take more electives during the additional semester / year in a hope to improve GPA or make better use of time are not permitted. They are also required to pay composition fees for the additional semester(s).

Additional information for students under double-degree or dual degree programmes

12. Changing of sequence of study and overloading law course(s): Students who follow our recommendation to change their order of study and overload to facilitate exchange should complete the online form (<https://moodle.hku.hk/mod/questionnaire/view.php?id=1831783>) (see also appendix H for reference) as soon as possible during course selection period in August and/or add-drop period in September. We seek your understanding that we are unable to answer all your course selection enquiries instantly during the course selection period. If you follow our recommendation and submit your request form by the stipulated deadline, you may assume our approval. We (or your home faculty) will amend your course selection manually as soon as possible after the end of the course selection / add-drop period. Please be reminded to double-check your enrolment record to make sure your course selections are in good order.
13. Opting out from LLB Programme: Students under any one of our double-degree programmes who intend to opt out from LLB Programme are required to indicate their intention before the end of their second year of study.

For students under HKU-PKU Dual Degree Programme, they are required to apply in writing not later than the end of the first semester of their third year.

14. Interdisciplinary electives taken by BA&LLB students: some interdisciplinary courses have more than one course code, plan carefully and select correct course code. Taking HKGS2013/LALS3008/LLAW3233 Law, History and Culture as an example, if you enroll in:

HKGS2013 - the course will count as your free elective;

LALS3008 - the course will count as your LALS elective; and LLAW3233 - the course will count as your law elective.

Additional information for students who are under single LLB programme

15. Designated research course to satisfy graduation requirement: You are required to take at least one law elective which is a designated research course (DRC) to fulfil the graduation requirement. You may refer to the course list and check courses which may satisfy the requirement (<https://course.law.hku.hk/> >> Designated research course list). It is possible to satisfy the DRC requirement on exchange by taking a research-based law elective. The topic of your research must be on substantive law with at least 6,000 words (inclusive of footnotes but exclusive of bibliography) but not more than 8,000 words. Drafting an agreement or legal document does not satisfy the DRC requirement. The research topic has to be pre-approved by the Director of Exchange via the exchange team.
16. Exemption from taking CLAW9001 Practical Chinese for law students: LLB students are required to take CLAW9001 either in their third or fourth year. Students who have not studied the Chinese language during their secondary education may apply for an exemption <https://moodle.hku.hk/mod/questionnaire/view.php?id=1831784>.

Other course arrangements applicable to all students

17. Course enrolment limit: You are only allowed to select up to 36 credits and required to take not fewer than 24 credits in any semester (except summer semester).⁵
18. Course pre-requisites: For those students who went on exchange in previous year, please note the course selection system does not recognize your successful completion of course pre-requisites (for examples: BA, Commercial Law and Criminal Law) from exchange. If you are unable to register courses on your own because of this problem, please complete the form provided (see Appendix I) as early as possible during the course enrolment period in August. Subject to availability of places, we (or your home faculty if you are a Year 1-3 student under an integrated double degree) shall enroll you in the course(s) manually.
19. Full year courses: when students select full year courses, such as Land Law I-II, Criminal Law I-II or Law of Tort I-II, please be reminded to select 'FY' course (FY = full-year) and then 'FA' class in semester one. Unless you have already obtained prior approval from the Department, parts I and II of full-year courses must be completed at the same academic year.

⁵ Except students under HKU-UCL Dual Degree Programme who are required to take 84 credits each year in their 3rd and 4th years.

21. Recommended booklist: we note students find it difficult to buy all their textbooks at one go at the beginning of academic year. When a particular item is out of stock, it takes the bookstore several weeks to order new copies from elsewhere. At the same time, the bookstore also finds it difficult to ascertain how many copies they should order from publishers. To try to solve the problems, a recommended booklist is provided (<https://dm.law.hku.hk/> >> click “LLB Booklist 2022-23” [NOTE: please note the booklist will only be available in mid / late August]). You are encouraged to order your books (in particular, LLB core and PCLL pre-requisites) well in advance before the start of the academic year to avoid disappointments.
22. PCLL pre-requisites: In order to provide students with flexibility on course selections, the Department has devoted additional resources to offer Land Law III and Evidence I in both semesters. You may take above-mentioned courses in any one of the two semesters that suits your overall study plan best.
23. Criminal and civil procedure: Starting from the cohort who takes PCLL in September 2021, the two procedural courses are not required for PCLL admissions. Both courses will be offered as electives under the LLB programme. Students who want to take Criminal Procedure as an elective are advised to take Evidence before Criminal Procedure in order to get a better understanding of Hong Kong Criminal Procedure law. If you intend to take Criminal Procedure before Evidence for any reasons, we strongly advise you to self-study Hong Kong Evidence law in advance and grasp some basis acknowledge before starting Criminal Procedure.

24. Graduation requirements: To ensure timely graduation, students (in particular students who are under integrated double degree programmes) are reminded to plan ahead and not to leave all graduation requirements to final year.
25. LLAW3187 Mooting and dispute resolution: The mooted course carries 6 credits and is a full-year course. The mooted course comprises of three elements, students are required to attend: (i) at least 2 out of 3 compulsory lectures which will take place throughout September-October, (ii) a two-hour coaching session which will take place during October–November and (iii) a Moot in February-April (dates to be determined). Course credits will count towards second semester, please take this into account when you plan for your course selection.
26. Introduction to Chinese law: The “regular” Introduction to Chinese Law course will be offered in the first semester. No intensive Introduction to Chinese Law course is offered in December 2022. If it is safe to travel, we may offer “intensive” Introduction to Chinese Law in the summer of 2023. Further news will be announced in the first quarter of 2023.
27. Teaching timetable: The timetable has been carefully drafted to ensure your timely completion of all core and PCLL pre-requisites requirements. While we have avoided any clashes on compulsory courses and PCLL pre-requisites, we seek your understanding in advance that some minor clashes with popular law and non-law electives are inevitable. Please be flexible on your course selections.
28. Course cancellation policy: To allocate teaching manpower in an efficient manner, the Department may cancel elective courses with insufficient enrolments. The minimum enrolment number is 10 under the normal situation. Affected students will be notified as soon as possible and asked to select another elective in substitution.
29. Course add/drop arrangements: An enrolment quota is set for each elective, the SIS course enrolment system will not accept your enrolment once the spots are filled. Due to manpower constraints, we are unable to offer waiting lists for popular electives. All spots will be filled on a first-come-first-served basis via the system (i.e. when someone drops, the available spot will be allocated to the first student who adds via Portal). Please also note certain teachers may maintain strict control on enrolment matters and do not accept free “add” during add/drop period due to their own pedagogy.

30. Special enrolment requests from students: Enrolment requests which deviate from the Regulations and Syllabuses (for instances: requests for overloading / underloading and request for changing order of study to facilitate exchange etc) are considered by Programme Director(s) and Head of Department on a case by case basis. When your request involves non-law courses or if you are a double-degree student, we will have to consult the offering department(s) and/or our partner faculties. Please do not expect immediate responses from us during course selection and add/drop periods as it takes us considerable time to handle each request.

Internships and leave of absence

31. All students must finish their internships before the commencement of each semester. If you are unable to attend class(es) due to internships, even if you are able to meet the minimum attendance requirement, your teacher may reject your course enrolment and ask you to choose another course in substitution. Please bear this matter in mind when you apply for internships and select courses.
32. For students who are under integrated-degree programmes, please note your application for leave for Year 4 and Year 5 are determined by the Department of Law.
33. A student who desires leave of absence for more than two full consecutive days is required to apply for leave of absence.
34. Students who intend to apply for a gap semester / year to take up full-time internships, please also refer to the application form for more information.

Specialisation (applicable to LLB, HKU-UCL and HKU-PKU dual degree students)

35. The department of law offers three streams of law specialisation: (i) Chinese Law (PRC), (ii) Commercial, corporate and financial Law (CCF); and (iii) International trade and economic law (ITEL). Due to resource constraints, not all specialisations are necessarily on offer every year. Students who intend to gain a specialisation are required to declare their intention either in the first semester of their penultimate year or first semester of their final year via HKU Portal during the course selection period. Late declarations will not be considered.
36. Students may refer to the course list to check out the courses which can count towards specialization (<https://course.law.hku.hk/>).

Minor

37. LLB students who have obtained the requisite number of credits (which shall not be fewer than 36 credits and not more than 48 credits) to declare a minor in a department, centre, school, programme or disciplinary field will be duly recognised by having the minor stated in the official academic transcript. Students who intend to declare a minor are required to declare their intention either in the second semester of their penultimate year or first semester of their final year via HKU Portal during the course selection period. Late declarations will not be considered.
38. List of minors can be found at: <http://aao.hku.hk/sy3/plan-of-study/major-and-minor/>. Students who intend to declare a minor should visit the website of relevant department to check the pre-requisite and course selection requirements. If there is any doubt, students should approach Ms Lydia Bute (LBUTE@hku.hk) of Department of Law for assistance.

Guidance Notes for Exchange: BA-LLB Students

If you are thinking about going on exchange in Year 4, you should keep these guidelines in mind as you plan your sequence of courses at HKU. Most of the guidelines involve moving courses around between different years so as to free up space for exchange in Year 4. The guidance notes should be read together with the syllabus of the BA&LLB, available for download here: <http://arts.hku.hk/current-students/undergraduate/BALLB/regulations>

General Policy

You may take up to 72 credits in any one year (ie. overload by 2 courses/12 credits per year). You may include up to 360 credits in your degree. So long as you comply with these two rules, it does not matter how many elective credits you transfer or need to complete in your exchange year.

More Specific Guidelines:

We do NOT advise overloading in Year 1. With careful planning, you should not have to overload by more than 1 course (6 credits) per year, if at all. You should keep in mind that overloading in one year does not mean that you can do fewer credits later on; the purpose of frontloading is to increase flexibility in your course selection in later years.

In order to fulfill University Requirements in Year 1, you need to do one CC course, plus EITHER the Core University English course OR a free elective (if you have achieved Level 5 or above in English

⁷ Students may choose to take the courses either in their Year 4 or Year 5.

Language in the HKDSE or equivalent).

If you are exempted from doing the Core University English course, you should use this free slot to take a compulsory course from Year 2 (ie. use this free slot to move a Year 2 compulsory course to Year 1 and save that free elective for exchange). If you use this free slot to take an additional CC course in Year 1 and follow the syllabus of taking 2 CC courses in Year 2, you still need to take a free elective in Year 3 in substitution of Core University English course.

To the extent possible, you should take at least 6 credits of Year 3 University Requirements in Year 2. For example, you could do Practical Chinese for Arts Students (6 credits) – originally scheduled for Year 3 – in Year 2. (The SIS system won't allow you to do this yourself, you will need to email Ms Nicole Wong at nicolewg@hku.hk who can manually add you to the course).

You should take Commercial Law (6 credits) – originally scheduled for Year 4 / 5 in Year 3.

In Year 4 (the year abroad):

- (i) You should try to take Introduction to Legal Theory (6 credits) while you are abroad;
- (ii) If you go on a full-year exchange: you should try to do Equity and Trusts (12 credits) while you are abroad. Not all Equity and Trusts courses taken abroad are recognized as equivalents to Equity and Trusts at HKU; you should check with the Exchange Team (or consult the exchange table: https://www.law.hku.hk/current-students/outgoing-exchange-programme-introduction/>> List of approved courses) to find out whether the Equity and Trusts course at the university you are going to will be recognized. If you do not take Equity and Trusts while you are abroad, you should try to take an alternative 12 credits of any of the Year 4 or Year 5 Law/Arts/LALS courses listed in the syllabus while you are abroad; and (iii) plan to use your elective credits on exchange.

In Year 5, you should take Business Associations (6 credits), Mooting and Dispute Resolution (6 credits), and any remaining required courses that you have not yet taken. If you plan to do the PCLL, you should also take Evidence I (6 credits) and Land Law III (6 credits).

Course selection advice for BBA(Law) Years 2 and 3 students:

BBA(Law) students intend to go on law exchange in Year 4 are strongly advised to start using their annual 12-credit overload or, where applicable, free electives to take core law courses that are most likely not eligible for credit transfer from overseas. These include Land Law, Constitutional law, Administrative law and Introduction to Chinese law. Since your exchange institution may not be able to offer business courses, you should also aim at taking enough courses to free up the business credits originally required in Year 4.

BBA(Law) Year 3 students (business stream) who plan to go on law exchange in their fourth year are advised to swap their year 3 free electives for 18 credits of year 4 required law courses, specifically Land law I-II or / and Introduction to Chinese law. BBA(Law) Year 3 students (accounting stream) students who intend to go on law exchange during their Year 4 are allowed to overload / advance taking Land law I-II or Introduction to Chinese law in their third year. See Appendix H.

BBA(Law) Year 2 students (both business stream and accounting stream) who intend to go on law exchange in their fourth year may overload / advance taking Constitutional law (third year required course), if necessary. See Appendix H.

2020-21	Year 3 (60 credits) <ul style="list-style-type: none">• 3 x PPA courses• Global citizenship / Social innovation (12 credits)¹⁰• Criminal law I-II• Land law I-II• Practical Chinese for BSS(GL)&Law students

¹⁰ Students can take Global Citizenship / Social Innovation in Year 3 or Year 4.

2019-20 and 2018-19	Year 4 and 5 (120 credits, 60 credits per year) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 5 x PPA courses • PPA capstone • Introduction to Chinese law • Commercial law • Business associations • Legal theory • Mooting and dispute resolution (capstone) • Equity & trusts I-II • 5 x law disciplinary electives¹¹ • 2 x free electives (advanced level) (law or non-law courses)

Course selection advice for BSS(G&L) students:

1. In general, Year 1 students eligible for exemption from U English should use the 6 credits to take a gateway course or a common core course. They still need to take a free elective later if they take a common core.

2. If students need to go on half-year exchange in Years 2 or 3, they will need to read as many half-year PPA / law courses in the semester that they remain in Hong Kong, and use the remaining full year in Years 2 or 3 in Hong Kong to read full-year law courses (i.e. Torts, Criminal and Land).

3. Students should only go on Social Sciences (as opposed to Law) Exchange in Years 2 and 3. Applications to go on Social Sciences exchange should be submitted to the Social Sciences Faculty.

4. To go on Social Sciences exchange in Year 2, a student should use the U English credits in Year 1 to take a common core course. At the visited institution, they should take all the gateway courses and all Year 3 PPA courses in order to satisfy the Politics part of the curricula in Years 2 & 3.

On their return in Year 3, students pursuing the double degrees will need to take all law courses as indicated in the attached table, 6 credits of Chinese, 6-12 credits of common core, and 0-6 credits of free electives (depending on whether they have taken 6 credits of common core in Year 1).

5. The Law Faculty does not offer an exchange programme for GLaw students in Years 2 or 3. In principle, however, the Law Department allows Years 2 or 3 students to transfer up to 12 law credits while they are on Social Sciences exchange. If students would like to take law course(s) (up to 12 credits) while they are on Social Sciences exchange, they would need to obtain approval from the host institution and the Social Sciences Faculty for doing so. Given that they are supposed to be on Social Sciences exchange, it is unlikely that the host institution will allow them to take many law courses. In their application for exchange submitted to the Social Sciences Faculty they should indicate clearly that they wish to transfer law credits and what those law courses and credits are. The Social Sciences Faculty will seek the Law Department's endorsement for transferring those law credits.

6. Students pursuing the integrated double degrees can go on law exchange in Years 4 or 5. Applications to go on Law exchange should be submitted to the Law Department.
7. To go on Law exchange in Year 4 or 5, students pursuing the double degrees should:
 - use the U English credits to take a PPA elective in Year 1
 - complete 12-credits of Global Citizenship or Social Innovation through internship in the summer of Year 2
 - in Year 3, take Land Law, Criminal Law, and Introduction to Chinese Law and 36-42 credits of PPA advanced level electives,
 - save 12 credits of free electives in year 4 (these credits can be satisfied by courses taken on exchange)
 - take POLI4092 or POLI4109 and CSSC9001 in years 4 or 5
 - aim at taking Legal Theory, Equity and/or Business Associations at the visited institution, but please check that the Legal Theory, Equity and Business Associations courses at the visited institution fall within the list of approved courses recognized by the Law Department (see: <https://www.law.hku.hk/current-students/outgoing-exchange-programme-introduction/> >> List of approved courses))
 - if students would like to transfer PPA credits (up to 12 credits) while on law exchange, they would need to obtain approval from the host institution and the Law Department for doing so. Given that they are supposed to be on Law exchange, it is unlikely that the host institution will allow them to take many PPA courses. In their application for exchange submitted to Law Department they should indicate clearly that they wish to transfer PPA credits and what those PPA courses and credits are. The Law Department will seek the PPA Department's endorsement for transferring those PPA credits.
 - take Mooting and Dispute Resolution in Years 4 or 5, the year they are in Hong Kong.
8. We do not provide law exchange for single-degree students in Year 4.

9. In Years 1-3, applications for changing the order of studies (whether in PPA or Law courses) should be made to the Social Sciences Faculty, which will seek the Law Department's endorsement in cases involving proposed changes in the sequence of law studies. See also appendix H for more information and instructions if you want to overload particular law courses in the third year to facilitate exchange. In Years 4-5, applications for changing the order of studies (whether in PPA or Law courses) should be made to the Law Department, which will seek the PPA Department's endorsement in cases involving proposed changes in the sequence of PPA studies.
10. Students are reminded that whatever study plans they have in mind, they need to fulfil the curriculum requirements set out in the Regulations, including that they should take no fewer than 24 credits in any one semester.
11. Students are only eligible to obtain a scholarship from the University once for going on exchange during the duration of the whole programme. In considering whether to grant applications for exchange, the Law Department will give absolute priority to those who have not gone on Social Sciences exchange during the first three years of their studies. In practice, it is highly unlikely that students will be able to go on exchange twice - once in Social Sciences and once in Law - during the duration of the whole programme.
